Handling potted shrubs/Trees

{ New plants should be planted as soon as possible.

{ If planting is delayed, then it is important to keep your plants watered.

{ Store unplanted shrubs and trees in a shady, wind protected location and keep the root area evenly moist.

Size of Planting Hole

{ Dig the planting hole at least twice the width of the root ball to allow for soil enrichments before planting.

{ When planting large heavy root balls, the soil at the bottom of the hole should be left solid to prevent the tree from settling lower.

{ The finished level of the tree should be the same as it was grown, or up to 8 cm (3") higher.

Handling of Various Plant Containers

Fiber Pots

For plants in fiber pots, remove the pot entirely!

{ Many fiber pots are coated to extend their shelf life, but this slows degradation below ground and retards root extension.

{ Water thoroughly with a root stimulating transplant fertilizer. An example of this would be "Transplant with Root" liquid concentrate.

Plastic Pots

{ Water plants thoroughly before removing the container.

{ A light tapping on the sides and bottom of the pot should release the soil, if not make two cuts the length of the pot on opposite sides and gently pull away the halves.

{ Use your fingers or a knife to gently loosen and spread exposed roots that appear crowded.

{ To free very matted or circling roots make several vertical cuts 1/2 to 1 inch deep through the root mass.

REDUCE YOUR OPERATION COSTS AND IMPROVE YOUR CUSTOMERS SATISFACTION

- ↑
ENSURE 2X FASTER ESTABLISHMENT
 Roots with mycorrhizae spread within the available space twice as fast as roots that do no benefit from the technology.
- ↑
INCREASE WATER RETENTION BY 30 %
 The plant's root system is more developed and thus absorbs more water.
- ↑
INCREASE SURVIVAL BY 75 %
 Roots with mycorrhizae have a greater capacity to absorb nutrients from the soil. Therefore, you get plants that are healthier, more vigorous and more resistant to stress.
- ↑
INCREASE PHOSPHORUS ABSORPTION
 Roots with mycorrhizae can absorb 3 to 5X more phosphorus than roots without mycorrhizae
- ↑
IMPROVE SOIL STRUCTURE AND PREVENT EROSION
 The root extension (filaments) provided by mycorrhizae holds soil particles together, which reduces erosion. Furthermore, by improving soil structure mycorrhizae allow better water penetration of about 25 %, thus slowing down erosion and stabilizing the soil.

HOW DOES IT WORK?

Roots WITHOUT Mycorrhizae

Roots WITH Mycorrhizae

The fungi that attach to the roots of plants form a symbiotic relationship called "mycorrhiza". Mycorrhizae form a filament network which develops in the soil environment and transports water and nutrients to the roots. Thanks to this symbiosis, mycorrhized plants grow larger and benefit from improved rooting. Over the years, the Premier Tech team has acquired a unique expertise in the production of quality mycorrhizal products and leading-edge strategies for the marketing of high-value technological products.
